

Specialist Teaching Assistant apprenticeship.

for a better tomorrow

Specialist Teaching Assistants play a key role in supporting learners with special educational needs (SEND), disabilities or emotional needs. Working alongside colleagues, they create an inclusive learning environment and provide specialist curriculum support or subject-based interventions to inspire learners to progress and achieve their goals.

What knowledge and skills will an apprentice learn?

Apprentices will learn through online workshops and one-to-one sessions with a Get Set UK Learning Development Mentor and specialist trainers, covering:

- Curriculum frameworks, safeguarding, knowledge of policies and processes and how to handle information responsibly.
- Principles of equity, diversity, and inclusion with a focus on sustainability in education.
- How to apply learning theories backed by research and evidence.
- Understanding assessment methods and how to create learning environments that help everyone thrive.
- Where and how to access specialist support for learners.
- Policies and procedures that support social and emotional well-being, and their theoretical foundations.

What experience will the employer need to provide?

The apprentice will need to have the opportunity to regularly carry out the following tasks:

- Plan engaging curriculums that align with key education frameworks.
- Champion equality, diversity, and inclusion in every learning space.
- Track progress through regular assessments and use insights to shape future teaching.
- Connect learners with the right professional support when needed.
- Regularly reflect on teaching practices and learner outcomes.
- Incorporate digital tools and new tech to boost learning and enhance educational outcomes.

What is involved in the end-point assessment (EPA)?

- Observation with questions
- Professional discussion underpinned by a portfolio of evidence
